"If I Had a Hammer"

President Jimmy Carter will sign copies of the new book "If I Had a Hammer: Building Homes and Hope with Habitat for Humanity" at 5pm, Thursday, October 15th at the Carter Presidential Library. President Carter wrote the forward to the book, giving personal anecdotes from his years of building with Habitat. The book's author, David Rubel, will also be at the book signing. "If I Had A Hammer" is an inspiring book for young readers telling the story of how, for a quarter-century in over ninety countries, Habitat for Humanity has built homes with and for the people who need them, aided by more than a million multigenerational volunteers. Copies of "If I Had a Hammer," along with books President Carter has written, will be available for purchase at the booksigning. President Carter will only be signing "If I Had A Hammer" and books he has written. For information call 404-865-7109.

Jewels to Jelly Beans: Treasures from the Presidential Vaults

In honor of the 5th anniversary of the Clinton Library on November 18, 2009, we will be hosting an exhibit showcasing all of the Presidential Libraries and their treasures. For each of the libraries we will show objects related to their library's dedication, a gift to the president, a few items that show something of the president's personality or hobbies, a piece of clothing from the first lady and a surprising item from the collection that one would not expect to find there. Features rarely seen artifacts, foreign and domestic gifts, and other priceless objects from the collections of more than 14 U.S. Presidents. These will all be accompanied by photos of the presidents and first ladies and information relating to each of the Presidential Libraries.
